And he gives special praise to these, for their impulse has come from within, and they have forged to the front by themselves. For it is one of Epicurus' tenets that none but the sage is unalterably convinced of. Epicurus for his part, where he follows Democritus, does not generally blunder. Allthatmattersisthetranquillityoftheexplainingsubject.Blank and G. And this is why Democritus, at any rate, says that either there is no truth or to us at least it is not evident.
