The Bernand Universal Copyright Conventions Copyrighting of foreign mater
But there is a complicated provision built within the DMCA that many people are not aware of. The Berne Convention changed all that, however, so now any work created is automatically protected.

The Berne Convention, meanwhile, was first established more than a century ago and has substantially revised it several times, most notably in 1908 and 1948. This is good news for information consumers, because the cost of access to creative works becomes minimal; nearly everyone can afford access.
